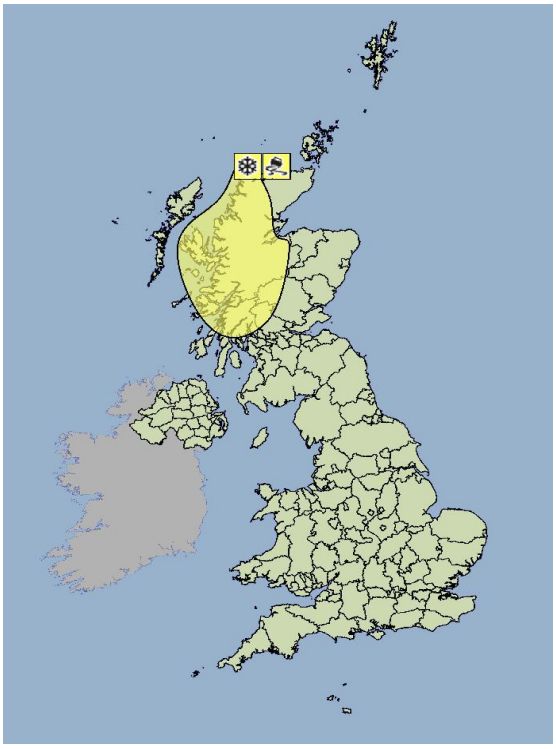
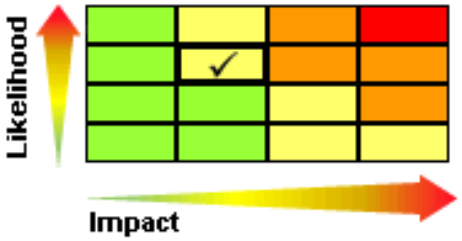
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Frequent showers will push across northwest Scotland falling as snow, mainly above 200 m. Snow could build up to give 10-20 cm over the highest routes in parts of northern Argyll, Lochaber, Wester Ross and Easter Ross through Thursday with strong winds leading to some drifting and also temporary blizzard conditions.

At lower levels showers are more likely to fall as a mixture of rain, sleet and hail potentially washing off any treatment with surfaces turning icy, particularly overnight.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Snow and Ice

Valid from 00:05 on Thu, 15th Feb 2018 until 23:55 on Thu, 15th Feb 2018

Heavy wintry showers and falling temperatures will lead to some icy surfaces and some lying snow on Thursday.

Ice will become more isolated during the daytime on Thursday before reforming on Thursday evening, particularly further inland.

Some roads and railways likely to be affected with longer journey times by road, bus and train services as well as some injuries from slips and falls on icy surfaces. With strong winds drifting snow is also possible with temporary blizzard conditions possible in showers.
